Miss E. B. Curtis.

Miss Elizabeth Burrill Curtis, the young daughter of George William Curtis, is among the New York women who are taking an active part in the effort to secure suffrage for women. One of her recent addresses has been published as a leaflet. In it she enumerates some painful cases, illustrating the hardships that women suffer under present laws and says: "How can any woman, happy in the affection of a good husband or father, say that she has 'all the rights she wants'? To rest on roses, knowing that thousands lie on thorns and yet to lift no finger for their relief, seems a strange attitude for followers of Jesus of Nazareth."—New York News.

Stout Women and Sashes.

For the stout woman the sash has been rendered possible by making it in the form of a point in the front and setting it just an inch below the waist. There it may rest becomingly, be drawn through a buckle or plain and fasten at the back with a short bow, a small bone on either side being of value. For a slim young girl the sash of chene ribbon is prettiest. With the sashes come innumerable bibs and tuckers, "hard times helps," as a bright girl called them, which in infinite variety and at trifling expense transform, freshen and adorn one or two overworked gowns.—Fashion Journal.

Belva Lockwood's Battle.

Judge Joseph Christian, formerly president of the court of appeals of Virginia, has presented an appeal to the United States court in behalf of Mrs. Belva A. Lockwood, who was lately refused admission to the bar of the supreme court of appeals in Virginia. It is submitted that, though a woman, she is a person and a citizen and is entitled under the constitution of the United States and the statutes of Virginia to practice in all the courts of that state, and the United States supreme court is asked to take such action as will require the Virginia court to admit her as a practitioner.

It Will Beget Interest.

Governor Jackson has signed the bill passed by the Iowa legislature empowering women who pay taxes to vote on the issuing of bonds and on increasing the tax levy. The Woman's Standard says: "Business women and taxpayers will readily see how much more important it is to them than the mere right of voting for public officers. We may not have occasion to use this power very often, but every public spirited woman will take a deeper interest in affairs because she has this new privilege."

For Our Daughters and Our Dollars.

Mrs. E. R. Clark of Stockton, N. Y., at the Dunkirk convention said: "Women are born economists; they know how to make $1 go for $10; they have the faculty of getting more for $1 than any class I know of. It makes a difference to women whether good laws are made or abolished. It makes a difference to them whether personal property is taxed, and the rate of taxation. We strike not for our altars and our fires, but for our daughters and our dollars."

Women Advertising Agents.

Advertising is a business in which women are beginning to figure prominently. In two very large advertising agencies in Boston the members of both firms are women and all their employees women. They make their contracts and attend to the most intricate business problems themselves and have large contracts for entire railroads and street cars in the largest cities in the United States.—Boston Commonwealth.

Need Not Fear Neglect.

To attend club meetings, local or national, is a very small part of the higher life of woman, but as voting takes only a very little of the time of the men, and as business, professions and industries do not suffer from masculine suffrage, so the household duties of women, however varied and exacting, need not fear neglect from the enlargement of woman's sphere.—Chicago Inter Ocean.

Questions connected with the approaching ordination of Miss Rachel Frank, a young Californian, as a Hebrew rabbi, concern what she is to be called and what robe she will wear officially. As she is the first woman rabbi, there are no precedents to settle these matters.

Although the fact is not apparent, the bustle is back. Nine out of every ten tailor made suits have hair cushions in the skirts. This is to throw out the corset, which are cut more than a little "spring."

Mrs. Lillie Devereux Blake has addressed an appeal to the working women of New York, earnestly entreating them to join in demanding political enfranchisement for the women of the state.

Henceforth women will be admitted to the postgraduate courses at Harvard. This is a great gain. It is stipulated, however, that they must first register as students of Radcliffe college.

TWO TAILOR MADE GIRLS.

HAT, BASQUE AND GOWN.

Hats and bonnets of lace braid will be more popular this year than ever. The long basque, with rather full skirts, is to be one of the standard garments of the season.

It is said that velvet and lace are to be the popular combination for full dress wear for the coming summer.

A new collar is made of 12 gorges cut in umbrella fashion. This is seen on a tailor costume of fine twill. The edge of the collar is trimmed with narrow braid stitched on by machine.

A novel waist, trimming is made of ribbons cut in lengths of about 10 inches. These are arranged to fall in ruffle fashion over the shoulders and bust. A beading is made of ribbon braided into a wide band.

The conspicuous and aggressive silk or ribbon bow is falling into disfavor. It has already been discarded by many women of conservative tastes, and in its place the soft looped bow of lace is likely to be adopted.

Shirred darts of black tulle, crape or silk muslin will be worn. They are made upon wires and may be bent in any shape to suit the wearer. The trimming is usually of wreaths of poppies, roses or wild flowers.

Long basques of fancy silk, with masses of lace, are among the coming dressy additions to the toilet. The skirts will cover one-third of the length of the dress skirt. Some models have lace flounces nearly half a yard deep.

A new idea in bodice making is to allow extra length to the outside material. This is left loose below the bust and falls into a mass of soft folds. It takes the place of a belt and if carefully arranged is quite stylish and very becoming.—New York Ledger.

STYLISH DRESSING.

The most distracting things in underwear are the silk petticoats, with flounces of silk, lace and chiffon and bows of ribbon.

Stylish young ladies like chip hats in all black. The fine satiny chip is trimmed with rich moire and satin ribbon, with aigrets and standing loops.

Flower bonnets are much liked for dressy wear. There is the merest foundation of braid or passementerie, and upon this is a quantity of fine foliage and blossoms.

All shades of brown will be fashionably worn in wraps this spring and summer. The dull greens, which are not unbecoming unless it be to the most sallow complexioned, are also stylish.

Rose bonnets remain in fashion. The bonnet proper is made from twisted stems covered with thorns. A few withered leaves are sometimes used. The trimming is of fine silk or velvet roses, with dark, rich leaves.

There is a disposition to popularize corduroy again. This material always has its uses. It is durable, stylish and manageable, stays in place and is not affected by dampness or sunlight. For certain grades of tailor costumes it is a prime favorite.

A handsome dinner costume is made of satin and velvet. The skirt is of satin and is deeply slashed at the foot and filled in with velvet. The satin sleeves have velvet puffs, and the revers and collar are also of velvet. A profusion of Irish point trims the waist and falls from the elbow sleeves over the arms.

The increase of divorce in this country is without parallel. In Texas during the 10 years from 1870 to 1880 the increase was 310 per cent over the preceding 10 years; in Arkansas, 229 per cent; in Alabama, 232; in Mississippi, 209; in Missouri, 77.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

HAD A GOOD TIME.

Some Little Offsets, but They Didn't Count Compared With the General Fun.

Among the passengers going over on one of the ferryboats yesterday afternoon was an old man with a red but good natured face, a bald pate, with a fringe of gray hair around it, and an evident desire to talk. Pretty soon he selected his man and said:

"I'm just going home after being in Detroit for two weeks."

"Have you enjoyed yourself?" was asked in reply.

"Yes, fairly well, considering that I had an attack of colic four different times, and that left knee has bothered me with rheumatism. It's kind of a queer place, though."

"How queer?"

"Oh, well, everybody is kinder colicky. I'll bet that over 40 fellers dug their elbows into me and hustled me around, and the boys sassed me in the most dreadful manner. I was on the street car and took some cough sirup out of a bottle, and everybody tittered and giggled."

"I took some cough sirup?"

"But you didn't mind it?"

"Oh, no, I didn't! I'm kinder colicky myself, and it takes a heap to get me flight in mad. I was on a street car one day where there was four or five wimmin standing up, while about a dozen men were taking it mighty comfortable. Made me sort of riled to see it, and I got up and said, 'All the hogs will keep right on sittin down and chawin terbacker, while all the gentlemen will git up and let these wimmin folks sit down!' Wal, sir, as many as six of them fellers offered to lick me, and one of them had a lot of crack at me. He'd 'a' hit me on the jaw, sure you're born, if I hadn't bristled right up to him and got my jackknife out."

"You talked to 'em just right."

"Yes, I guess I did. Another time I was on a car when a feller in a wagon wouldn't git off the track. The driver he did more whistlin than would call my old dog for 10 years, and the feller wouldn't git off. Sorter riled me to see a man actin so pizen mean, and I yelled, 'Look-a-here, mister, if you was a livin out our way and showed your meanness after this fashion, you'd 'a' got a rail quicker'n I sent, and I'd be one to help carry it!' Wal, sir, he jumps down and was goin to pull me off the platform, and he talked about smassin my jaw and breakin my ribs till a policeman walked him off."

"Any other adventures?"

"Wal, one evening I went up to a policeman at the postoffice. He was lookin tired and sleepy. I offered to spell him for a couple of hours if he wanted to go and take a nap."

"On the whole, what do you think he did? Come mighty nigh arrestin me! Said I was interferin with an officer! I seen he was one of them tochy fellows."

"No, not all. But then he didn't understand your motive probably."

"'Nother time," continued the old man, "I met a policeman on the dock and asked him if he didn't make him giddy and upset his stomach by bein so high up over the water, and he got mad in a minit and squared off at me. Ain't no mortal use in anybody bein so cantankerous as all that."

"But on the whole you've had a good time, haven't you?"

"Wal, on the whole, I've had a darned good time for an old man like me, and I'm carrying hum over 'leven dollars wuth o' presents to the family! I've been sassed and elbowed, and I've come mighty nigh havin 'bout six fights, but on the hull it's all right, and I'm goin hum to do some of the tallest braggin you ever heard of!"—Detroit Free Press.
